Description

Jean MARQUERIE (Lourdes 1905 - Tarbes 1968) The Pic du Midi de Bigorre and the Pic Montaigu Oil on panel, signed lower left Dimensions: 47 cm x 65 cm Jean Marquerie was an important but little-known artist of the Tarbes school of painting, which emerged under the guidance of Henri Borde, of whom he was one of the first disciples and friends. A figurative painter, Borde's influences are evident in his works. However, his artistic style gradually evolved into a realistic expressionism. He employs rather dark and muted colors. Occasionally, brighter and more vivid tones emerge from his palette. His landscapes are constructed with broad perspectives, bordering on distortion, yet always maintaining an overall balance. Resistant to the abstraction of the 1950s,
