PROANTIC
LE PLUS BEAU CATALOGUE D'ANTIQUITES

Dutch School, 17th Century - After Paulus Potter (1625-1654)- Bear Hunting Scene

2 950 EUR

Period : 17th century

Condition : Bon état

Material : Oil painting

Description

Dutch School, 17th centuryAfter Paulus Potter (1625-1654)Bear HuntOil on canvas.The painting depicts a spectacular bear hunt, in which a mounted hunter, sword raised, leads a pack of dogs attacking the animal. The balance of the composition, the liveliness of the movement and the treatment of the animals give the work a remarkable decorative presence.Attributed to an artist of the 17th-century Dutch School, this work bears witness to the dissemination of Paulus Potter's great compositions in Dutch painting.TechniqueOil on canvas, formerly mounted onto another canvas.DimensionsCanvas: 38 × 42 cm.Frame: 56 × 60 cm.ConditionGood overall condition.Old mounting onto canvas.Presented in its antique carved and gilded wooden frame.Old restorations and slight wear

Dealer

ArsRerum

Old Master Paintings o Drawings & Prints o Medieval & Renaissance Sculpture

200 boulevard de la Résistance Bat MB

Mâcon 71000

consistent with the age of the work.Beautiful overall presentation.Reference work:This composition directly follows the celebrated Bear Hunt painted by Paulus Potter in 1649, now in the collection of the Rijksmuseum, Amsterdam (inv. SK-A-316).Potter's monumental painting (305 × 338 cm) depicts a bear attacked by a pack of dogs, while a mounted hunter, sword drawn, intervenes in the struggle. The present work reprises the composition and its principal motifs on a reduced scale.Paulus Potter (1625-1654), Bear Hunt, 1649, oil on canvas, Rijksmuseum, Amsterdam, inv. SK-A-316.Rijksmuseum - Bear HuntThe reference work is documented in the Rijksmuseum bibliography, notably in the catalogue devoted to the artist, Paulus Potter: schilderijen, tekeningen en etsen.Enquiries & shippingPlease do not hesitate to contact us for any enquiries, purchases or information regarding the delivery of this work.Each work is carefully packed and shipped with tracking and insurance, according to its nature and destination.Free shipping within the continental European UnionShipping within the European Union.