"Congolese Figures" by Ldi Soku depicts a group of seated Congolese figures, brought together in a dense and expressive composition. The figures are depicted with stylized forms, calm postures, and gazes directed toward different points. Ldi Soku, a 20th-century painter, uses shades of brown, black, white, and gold here, accented by a few touches of red and blue. The bold lines and contrasts give the work a strong presence and an intimate atmosphere.
