Description

A rare and exceptional ceremonial chest made of oak...Its front is adorned with a remarkable central panel carved in high relief depicting the biblical scene of the sacrifice of Isaac. The composition is divided into three narrative sections: the servants on the left, the altar in the center, and the angel holding back Abraham's arm on the right. The panel is enhanced by a frame of generously molded friezes, carved with gadroons, foliage, and acanthus leaves. Rare! The chest has retained its original lock and key, both in perfect working order. Date: late 16th century...Extraordinary dimensions!
