Description

Antique cylindrical goblet made of opaline crystal in a superb turquoise blue, dating from the Restoration period (circa 1825-1835). High-quality craftsmanship, entirely adorned with a delicate gold-painted design depicting birds perched among flowering branches, garlands of foliage, and bouquets of roses, accented with small polychrome berries. This goblet perfectly illustrates the Restoration period's taste for richly decorated opaline glass.. 9 cm high in very good condition, with slight wear to the gilding
