Description

Characterized by refined stylistic elegance and highly effective graphic lines, this original drawing by the master Enrico Brandani (1914-1979) reveals a distinct modern sensibility. The composition depicts two slender female figures, outlined with geometric lines and angular drapery that evoke the visual language of mid-20th-century modernism, blending surrealist and theatrical elements. The handwritten title in French, "La veuve et la mariée ou les vierges folles", intertwines the metaphor of the stages of womanhood with the parabolic theme of the Foolish Virgins, reinterpreted here in a poetic and mysterious key. The work bears the artist's monogram in the lower right corner of the sheet, along with her handwritten signature and the studio stamp embossed on the support in the
