Description

Pair of Louis XVI-style walnut beds - 18th century
A very beautiful pair of twin beds in the Louis XVI style, made of walnut, dating from the 18th century. This elegant pair features exquisite construction with turned posts, embellished with small decorative elements and pinecones at the top. The headboards and footboards are adorned with molded panels, topped by a triangular pediment centered with a radiating medallion--a motif characteristic of the Louis XVI style. The quality of the proportions, the craftsmanship in the walnut, and the understated ornamentation lend this set a great deal of elegance. The two beds are perfectly matched and make a beautiful decorative set for a period bedroom or a home with character.
