Description

Baroque-style sideboard made of walnut and poplar, dating from the first half of the 20th century. The piece features a front with six paneled doors, divided into two sections, with a design that is repeated on the sides, creating a sense of harmony and symmetry. The serrated molding beneath the top adds a decorative element characteristic of the period. The upper section includes nine square-fronted drawers, fitted with sheet metal and iron handles that perfectly match those on the lower doors, which feature ventilation slots. The interior, crafted from fir, offers practical and functional space for organizing objects and documents. This piece of Italian furniture represents a perfect synthesis of Baroque aesthetics and modern functionality. Product condition: Due to its age and
