Description

This Napoleon III-style open-fronted writing desk, crafted from fine mahogany, is a distinctive example of French craftsmanship from the second half of the 19th century. The cabinet features four box drawers with green faux-leather fronts, characterized by a central locking mechanism operated by the lock on the drawer below. The pull-out top includes a green leather insert, while a drawer in the lower section provides additional open compartments lined with maple or cedar. The curved front legs end in metal animal-foot finials, accompanied by flush-mounted vents, knobs, handles, and moldings made of the same material. The molded base is supported by casters, ensuring easy mobility. This combination of functional and decorative elements makes the piece an elegant addition to any room.
