Description

An exceptional pair of gilded, chiseled bronze "Tazza" in the Athenian style, attributed to Pierre-Philippe Thomire, designed with a Greco-Roman-inspired architectural composition featuring a triangular structure on a concave base and used as a centerpiece during dinners or receptions. Circular tray with a slightly flared bowl, encircled by a wide gadrooned molding accented by a beaded frieze. The molded lower basin is decorated with water leaves and a central floral knob forming a lamp base. The central shaft is a fluted cylindrical column, resting on a base with stylized acanthus leaves and crowned by a finial with foliage motifs. Three broad, openwork brackets in the shape of double volutes, depicting acanthus scrolls winding around an openwork background, embellished with leaf-shaped bases, carved rosettes, and pilaster motifs. A triangular plinth with concave sides resting on a smooth baseboard. The body of the plinth features an Amati groove along which runs a continuous high-relief frieze of alternating palmettes, fleurons, and acanthus bases. Superb original mercury gilding, with attractive matte and glossy finishes. A Parisian piece from the early 19th century, circa 1820, attributed to Pierre-Philippe Thomire. A very similar Athenian Tazza, attributed to Pierre-Philippe Thomire, is documented in the reference work Vergoldete Bronzen by Ottomeyer and Pröschel, page 312.
