15 999 EUR

Period : 19th century

Condition : Très bon état

Material : Silk

Description

A silk Heriz rug dating from the mid-19th century, around 1850, featuring a richly detailed Orientalist design. The central field is adorned with an elegant medallion depicting a finely decorated mosque lamp, surrounded by figurative motifs evoking feline and feminine masks, reflecting original and unique artistic influences. The design is complemented by delicate vases filled with flowers set against a deep red background. The composition is framed by a wide black border, accompanied by three secondary borders richly adorned with floral and foliage motifs. With its fine silk, rich decoration, and original composition, this piece is a fine example of 19th-century Oriental textile art. Dimensions: 171.5 × 125 cm
