Description

A striking clock made of royal red marble, topped by a bronze sculpture signed by Bourely and designed by the sculptor Eutrope Bouret, depicting a female allegory draped in the classical style, closing a box that evokes the myth of Pandora.There are two small chips on the corners of the clock, a missing ring on the left side within the lion's mouth, and restoration of a part of the clock mechanism is required; otherwise, it is in good overall condition.
