Description

Gien: Glazed earthenware planter with heraldic decoration - Renaissance style Beautiful polychrome earthenware planter, with a slightly ribbed ovoid shape, resting on a small ring-shaped base and featuring a wide, flared neck. The particularly rich decoration stands out against a deep cobalt blue background. The main face is adorned with a crowned heraldic cartouche, surrounded by broad polychrome foliage scrolls in the Renaissance style. In the center is a winged putto against a light blue background. A frieze of stylized orange and blue flowers frames the upper rim. The color palette--combining cobalt blue, orange, green, white, and light blue, along with the historicist ornamental style, evoke French decorative earthenware inspired by Renaissance majolica,
