Description

We are offering for sale a rare three-piece set dating from the late Victorian era (circa 1880-1895). The set consists of an oval brooch and two suit or vest buttons. It is crafted from natural blue-green banded agate, overlaid with a layer of openwork precious metal that has been finely hand-carved. The design is a historicist-style filigree monogram, composed of intertwined initials. The brooch features a tubular hinge typical of the period and a C-shaped clasp. The piece is in perfect condition and comes in its original case lined with cyclamen-colored velvet and silk. A perfect collector's item or an ideal project for repurposing (for example, turning the buttons into earrings). Insured international shipping available.
