Description

This refined 19th-century antique fireplace is crafted from exclusive Blue Fleuri marble and is an elegant example of the graceful Pompadour style. Its characteristic flowing lines and subtly shaped central section give the fireplace a stately appearance while retaining a sense of lightness and refinement.The marble is distinguished by its lively pattern of blue-grey, anthracite and white veining. Each section has its own unique natural composition, enhancing both the handcrafted character and the luxurious appearance of the piece. The richly shaped jambs, decorative curves and generously profiled mantel shelf are testament to high-quality 19th-century craftsmanship.Thanks to its balanced proportions, this fireplace is equally suited to a classical interior or a contemporary setting, where it can
