Description

Max Le Verrier - "Mowgli and Bagheera" - Art Deco sculpture, ca. 1930A beautiful and significant Art Deco sculpture by Max Le Verrier (1891-1973) depicting Mowgli accompanied by the panther Bagheera, inspired by the world of Rudyard Kipling's The Jungle Book. The young man, kneeling, rests one hand on the panther while his outstretched arm points toward the horizon. This dynamic composition, combining a human figure with an animal subject, is characteristic of the Art Deco aesthetic of the 1930s. Crafted from art metal with a green patina, the sculpture rests on an elegant, architecturally designed base made of beige reconstituted stone with geometric lines. Signed "M. Le Verrier" in relief on the base. Max Le Verrier, a leading figure in French decorative sculpture between the
