Description

A beautiful grisaille with golden tones, depicting several putti gathered around what is likely an allegorical scene. The figures, each in a different pose, are arranged in the foreground beneath a broad drapery that creates an elegant flow in the upper part of the composition. The monochrome treatment and the subtle interplay of light and shadow give the work the appearance of a sculpted relief, a characteristic of the grisaille technique. The work is presented in a molded wooden frame with a dark patina and an inner border of natural wood.
