Description

This large dish made of fine Longchamp earthenware, known as "Terre de fer", features a floral design of roses and lilacs. The reverse side bears the engraved mark "Longchamp Terre de Fer". There is a chip on the rim of the dish, on the reverse side, which does not prevent it from being displayed or hung on the wall--see (photo 8). These highly decorative fine earthenware pieces were produced in the second half of the 19th century.
