A round walnut table dating from the mid-19th century, from Rolo, featuring a tabletop with a central inlay depicting Victor Emmanuel II of Savoy. The surface of the tabletop is further enhanced by inlays of various woods and an elm burl insert, creating an elegant interplay of contrasts. The central leg, also made of elm, is masterfully turned and rests on three curved feet topped with scrolls, providing stability and a touch of refinement. This table is a fine example of 19th-century cabinetmaking and fits perfectly into classic and sophisticated interiors.
