Description

An important pyramid-shaped sculpture made of solid Murano glass by the artist Romano Donà, created in the 1970s. The sculpture features a pure geometric form, an icon of Italian Space Age design. The amber/smoked-colored glass body is supported by four spherical feet made of clear glass, cast as a single piece. Inside, there are two levels of decoration: The base features numerous teardrop-shaped air bubble inclusions that create a fluid and dynamic effect. The upper section features a refined decoration of black and white glass rods wound in a spiral, lending movement and depth to the piece. The surface is cold-polished with perfectly sharp edges. Piece signed "Donà," hand-engraved on one side and bearing the original label. Romano Donà (1934-2013) was one of the most important
