

19th-century Swivel Ship's Chair Made Of Oak, With Adjustable Height

750 EUR

Period : 19th century

Condition : Très bon état

Material : Solid wood

Description

An elegant and original 19th-century swivel ship's chair, crafted from solid oak and featuring an ingenious height-adjustment mechanism. Originally designed for use aboard a ship, this chair combines sturdiness with functionality. Its swivel seat and adjustable height allowed the user to adapt their seating position while maintaining the stability essential for maritime use. Crafted from oak with rich grain, this chair exemplifies the artisanal craftsmanship characteristic of 19th-century furniture. Over time, the wood has developed an attractive natural patina, highlighting its authenticity and the warmth of the material. Its functional mechanical design, combined with its traditional wooden construction, gives this armchair a distinctive nautical and industrial character.
