Description

Johannes Klinka - Set of Four Figure Studies - circa 1920

A set of four figure studies executed by Johannes Klinka approximately a century ago.

Drawn in pencil and red chalk on paper, they depict a seated woman, two studies of a male model, a seated man, and a man and woman in different poses.

The monumentality of the forms, confident draughtsmanship and striking simplicity of the compositions give these drawings a remarkably modern appearance. Displayed together, they transcend their original function as academic studies and become distinctive decorative elements, particularly well suited to a contemporary interior.
