

Antique Six-row Coral Bracelet - Pom-pom Clasp - Circa 1850

750 EUR

Period : 19th century

Condition : Bon état

Material : Coral

Length : 18 cm

Description

An elegant vintage bracelet composed of six strands of coral, alternating between small, irregularly shaped beads and polished round beads, featuring a beautiful, uniform orange hue. A substantial rectangular clasp in gilded pomponne, finely engraved in relief with a foliage design and scroll motifs, adorned with two coral cabochons. The richness of the clasp and the multi-row design are characteristic of coral jewelry that was in vogue in the mid-19th century. European work, likely French, circa 1840-1860. Total length: 18 cm. In good overall condition, with the slight natural irregularities typical of antique coral.
