Description

A superb 19th-century Aubusson tapestry, of a very generous size, measuring approximately 2.66 m high by 2.06 m wide, depicting an elegant romantic scene in a rural landscape. The composition features three figures dressed in 18th-century fashion, gathered in the heart of a bucolic landscape. In the foreground, a young woman in a pink dress appears to be picking or reaching for a branch, while a couple standing on the path exchanges knowing gestures and glances with her. This charming scene evokes galant gatherings and romantic strolls, in the spirit of the pastoral compositions prized by lovers of painting and tapestry. The setting is particularly rich: tall trees with lush foliage, abundant vegetation, a winding path, a river, and a rolling landscape unfold in a beautiful perspective stretching to the
