Description

DESCRIPTION: Felice Torelli The Annunciation of the Virgin - Octagonal painting
Period: 18th century
Technique: Oil on canvas
Description: A fine work by Felice Tonelli depicting the Annunciation of the Virgin. The scene shows the Virgin Mary on the left, depicted in a pose of gentle wonder and devotion, with one hand on her chest and the other raised, standing before a lectern with an open book. On the right is the Archangel Gabriel, with elegant, flowing pink drapery and a white lily in his hand, a symbol of purity. At the top, a cherub holds a red velvet curtain with a tassel, while in the center appears the dove of the Holy Spirit, illuminating the scene. A well-executed Baroque painting with luminous, rosy skin tones, soft and well-constructed drapery, and a warm color
