Description

Restoration-era mahogany display bookcase - 19th century
An elegant Restoration-era display bookcase, crafted from mahogany in the 19th century. With its beautiful proportions, this piece features the understated and refined design characteristic of the Restoration period. The glass-fronted upper section showcases books, collectibles, porcelain, and glassware while protecting them. The mahogany has a beautiful, warm, deep hue with particularly decorative grain. The straight, balanced lines and the quality of the cabinetmaking lend this bookcase a great deal of elegance. A piece that is both decorative and functional, easy to incorporate into a living room, office, or library. Period: Restoration - 19th century Material: Mahogany Dimensions: Height:

165.5 cm Width: 89.5 cm Depth: 42.5 cm
