Description

This Art Deco bronze sculpture, in excellent condition, exudes Art Deco elegance and purity.

23 x 7.5 cm. H: 14 cm. Ignacio GALLO was born in May 1887 in Valladolid. In 1902 and 1903,

Gallo attended advanced courses at an art school.

As a sculptor, he received a second-class prize and, the following year, a special distinction from the municipality and the province. In Paris, between 1910 and 1935, he devoted himself to creating numerous Art Deco-style sculptures featuring motifs such as bathers, dancers, nudes, and pagan goddesses, which he often had cast at Marcel Guillemar's foundry. In Paris, he joined a small group of friends from Valladolid, including the violinist Julián Jiménez, the painter Eduardo

García Benito, and the sculptor Mariano Alonso

Izquierdo.
