Description

ARM265 - An elegant and imposing mirror cabinet dating from the late 19th century, embodying the eclectic taste of the 19th century with references to the Napoleon III style. Crafted from black-lacquered wood, it is embellished with elegant contrasting gilding that highlights its architecture and decorative details. The upper section features a large mirror framed by a monumental structure with side columns and carved medallions, giving the piece a striking visual presence. The base consists of a central section closed by a door, flanked by side compartments with hand-painted panels depicting delicate landscapes--a decorative element typical of fine 19th-century furniture. The piece as a whole stands out for its harmonious proportions, rich details, and high-quality craftsmanship. A
