

Vietnam: Art Of Annam, Lê Dynasty, Ca. 15th-16th Century, Blue-and-white Ceramic Jarlet

200 EUR

Period : Before 16th century

Condition : Etat d'usage

Material : Ceramic

Description

A rare small globular jar (jarlet) made of blue-and-white Annamite ceramic from Vietnam, dating from the Lê Dynasty, specifically the late 15th or early 16th century, and originating from the famous Chu Dau kilns. This small, utilitarian flask features a cobalt-blue underglaze painted decoration, embellished with a stylized frieze of lotus petals radiating around the neck and floral panels on the body. The piece is characterized by a charming network of natural craquelure and an authentic patina. The most rounded part of the body shows signs of wear and friction from its time, which have locally abraded the glaze, revealing the bare cobalt and thus confirming its age and history. Regarding its condition, note that the neck has been restored, as visible in the photos included in the description. The base

Dealer

Patrick Etienne Antiquités

Lights shipped worldwide

Tel : 0614424702

Rue du château

Ancenis 44150

features a short, unglazed foot that reveals beige stoneware typical of local productions from this period. From the same family collection as the rouge pot currently for sale elsewhere, it was acquired from an antique dealer in Vietnam in the 1950s and brought back to France during that period, guaranteeing its authenticity and ruling out the possibility that it came from a shipwreck. Dimensions: Height 8.5 cm Diameter 9 cm Weight 266 g Shipping: The listed price includes shipping costs for mainland France; the item will be shipped in a secure package with insurance and delivered with a signature required. Shipping to other destinations is available upon request; worldwide shipping is available upon request.