Description

Oil on cardboard, signed lower right: G. Chavignaud. Measuring 41 cm x 33 cm unframed, 56 cm x 48 cm overall. Depicting traffic on the Pont Neuf in Paris, painted around 1935. Georges Chavignaud, 1865-1944, French painter and watercolorist born in Lanvéoc near Brest. He spent his childhood in Brittany. His father was a writer, musician, and collector, thanks to whom he had the opportunity to observe Camille Corot at work. He studied at the Collège Charlemagne in Paris. In 1882, he lived in New York and then, two years later, in Toronto, where he served as artistic director at a publishing house until 1902. During a trip to Europe, he studied engraving in Paris and painting at the Royal Academies of Fine Arts in Brussels and Antwerp. He became an admirer of French Impressionism. He then settled
