Description

A large terracotta statue depicting Venus bathing, with an antique bronze patina. The original model is made of marble and is located in Florence, Italy (see the last photo). Our piece likely dates from the early 20th century and weighs approximately 70 kg. Highly decorative, it spent many years on the landing of the staircase in a bourgeois home in Pontivy. Overall in good condition, with some wear on the arm and minor, insignificant chips at the base, as well as an original firing crack in the terracotta between the hand and the knot--for the most meticulous buyers. Delivery available (details to be determined) within France and neighboring countries.
