Description

Poodles are adorable dogs that are easy to teach all sorts of tricks; "sit" is the very basics of the antics they can perform. This charming painting depicts the efforts of this country boy, diligently teaching a dog that is certainly not from his world--likely belonging to a beautiful lady visiting the farm. Beautifully painted, dated 72, and signed by Heinz Weber of Munich, this is a fine painting worthy of the Bastien-Lepage school, which excelled in such subjects. We have little information about this painter; there are several people with the same name, but the dates do not match. Freshly framed in a period-style molding, the painting is in excellent condition. Dimensions of the work: 47 cm x 34 cm
