Description

Made from old books that have been hollowed out to create a discreet liquor cabinet--hidden from plain sight! Inside, you'll find four small glasses and a small clear glass decanter accented with gold. This cabinet also features a music-playing mechanism that works perfectly in theory but is very unpredictable. Let me explain: I did assemble the mechanism correctly, but it wasn't until two days later that the box started playing music on its own, without any input from me! In other words, the box's mechanism could use a little tune-up. Shipping available in France and internationally; contact me for details
