Description

We are pleased to present this antique Italian nightstand dating from the late 17th century. An extremely rare piece and a jewel of Italian Baroque cabinetmaking, this extraordinary nightstand combines harmonious proportions, formal precision, and timeless charm. Crafted from fine solid walnut, it features simple yet distinctive lines, with the sides and drawer fronts adorned with elegant relief panels and mixed-shaped corners--a hallmark of the Baroque era. At the base, it rests on bracket feet, typical of the period. The deep brown hue of the walnut and the signs of age create a unique and authentic visual accent. Functionally, it is equipped with three practical drawers. Note the fascinating detail on the front left corner of the top: the initials "C A" are branded into the wood. In the 17th century, these letters were often branded as a seal of noble ownership, an inventory mark, or the mark of the workshop that crafted the piece. Perfect for the bedroom, this nightstand can also serve as a charming and functional small chest of drawers in any room of the house--in the living room, entryway, or bedroom--offering practical additional storage space. Wherever you decide to place it, it will become a focal point, admired and envied by all your guests. Its elegant simplicity makes it perfect for both classic interiors and for creating a striking contrast with modern spaces. The nightstand has undergone a conservative restoration that has preserved the charming marks of centuries past while making it ready to be placed in your home immediately. The top drawer originally had a lock, which is now missing.
