Description

A rare and exceptional Louis XIV framemounted as a mirror in the 19th century. A richly carved medallion on oak wood, topped by a pediment featuring an openwork shell and cascading flowers that majestically crown its form. Decorated with scrollwork of bursting acanthus leaves along its profile and base. A few minor repairs to the carving made by a master ornamentalist. The original gilding is well preserved. On the back, the label from the parent company "Lebrun," a renowned institution for six generations, attests to its passage through their hands in the 19th century. A testament to its high quality and unparalleled craftsmanship. Reference: Sun King
