Description

Decorative plaque in polychrome enamel on copper created in Limoges by Léa Sham's, a contemporary enamel artist known for her vibrant compositions and instantly recognizable graphic style. The plaque features a stylized bird perched among foliage, rendered in a particularly vivid palette blending blue, green, purple, yellow, and orange. The design, deliberately minimalist and almost naive, is structured by bold black outlines that give the piece a strong presence despite its small size. The luminous orange background contrasts sharply with the cool tones of the plumage and leaves, creating a highly decorative composition characteristic of Léa Sham's work. The reverse side is entirely back-enamelled in speckled blue and bears the engraved signature: "Léa Sham's - Limoges" A Limoges
