Description

Originating from Leicester and dating from the period 1780-1800, this 18th-century English wine table is a timeless antique that exudes style and refinement. Its ebonized wood features a magnificent patina marked by the passage of time, beautifully highlighting the piece's rich history, while the gracefully crafted tabletop adds a touch of subtle elegance. The legs, simple yet harmoniously proportioned, perfectly embody the "less is more" principle, offering an ideal balance between functionality and aesthetics. Highly versatile, this table becomes a true focal point when adorned with a beautiful vase or a colorful bouquet. Thanks to its timeless design, it blends effortlessly into modern, classic, or country-style interiors, making it an elegant and practical addition to any home. Dimensions: Height: 75
