Description

Carved wooden trouser chest - Twisted columns - Marble top - 19th century
A very beautiful and original piece of furniture, a trouser cabinet made of carved and molded wood, dating from the 19th century, featuring particularly ornate architecture inspired by Renaissance furniture. The front opens with two doors featuring heavily molded panels carved with stylized plant motifs. They are framed by two elegant twisted columns, which lend the piece great depth and character. The interior reveals a particularly interesting layout consisting of several drawers. The upper and lower sections are adorned with drawers featuring carved and openwork decoration, fitted with drop-down bronze handles. The side panels are adorned with rosettes and carved foliage motifs. The piece rests on ball feet and features a beautiful, warm brown
