Description

A mirror with an inverted profile, decorated with rich marquetry of native woods featuring leaf motifs, attributed to Noel Hache (1630-1675). Finely decorated using the hot-sand burnishing technique, it is finished with ebony-style moldings accented by light-colored wood fillets. Original mercury mirror. The son of a baker, born in Calais in 1635, Noël Hache settled in Toulouse at the age of 21. He was admitted as a master craftsman in Toulouse on March 26, 1665, and became "bayle" of the guild--the equivalent of master guardian--on July 29, 1667. Archival documents suggest that he may have been the only cabinetmaker in Toulouse around 1660; or at least, this is a title he seems to have claimed. It was likely in Calais, a small town in northern France not far from the
