Description

An antique oil-on-wood painting depicting a pair of winged cherubs in a landscape, dating from the late 18th century. The two figures occupy almost the entire pictorial space and are arranged in a slightly diagonal vertical composition. The cherub on the left appears more withdrawn and reclined, with his face turned toward his companion, who is characterized by dark wings, curly hair, and a fair complexion. A sheep appears in the lower left corner, an element that contributes to the pastoral and playful atmosphere of the scene. The rendering of the skin tones is soft and nuanced, with gradual tonal transitions, while the drapery is characterized by more pronounced folds and contrasts of light and shadow. Condition: Excellent. Provenance: France. Dimensions: 45x55 cm. Period: 18th century. Documentation:
