Description

An old and partial copy of a major work by Rubens, with a subject inspired by Virgil's Aeneid. Marie de' Medici can be seen in the background of the original painting, alongside the crowned Louis XIII. In our painting, only two women holding oars appear, each with a shield below them. A dolphin emerges at the bow of the ship. A powerful and highly decorative work, in good condition. The canvas was mounted onto a wooden panel in the 20th century. 'Beautiful 19th- or 20th-century frame, made of figured wood, in the style of 17th-century Dutch frames.'
