Quadrangular pyx in champlevé enamel--in the 13th-century style with a pyramidal lid, Limoges, early 19th century. Square liturgical casket in patinated bronze or copper, lavishly decorated with polychrome champlevé enamels (turquoise blue, lapis blue, white, green, and yellow). Decoration: The main sides feature a circular central medallion bordered in white on a midnight blue background, enclosing a yellow cross pattée. On either side are green and white foliate motifs of scrolls and palmettes on a sky-blue enamel background, enhanced by a geometric latticework pattern. Lid: A four-sided lid that follows the shape of the box, topped with a cylindrical brass knob. The decoration reinterprets the floral and geometric motifs found on the sides. Fittings: Original hinge on the back
