Description

French Art Nouveau necklace in 18-karat gold, sapphires, and seed pearls. A very beautiful French Art Nouveau necklace in 18-karat gold (750/1000), hallmarked with an eagle's head, featuring a delicate floral composition characteristic of the period's aesthetic. The central section consists of a series of five openwork, articulated motifs, adorned with a rich relief decoration of flowers and foliage. The supple, sinuous lines of the setting envelop the floral compositions and lend the piece the organic movement characteristic of Art Nouveau. The various elements are accented with small sapphires, whose deep blue forms an elegant contrast with the warm hue of the gold. Delicate strands of pearls set as pendants complete the composition, lending lightness and movement to the piece. The chain, slender and elegant, is itself dotted with small, elongated decorative elements, harmoniously extending the refinement of the central section. A truly beautiful piece of French Art Nouveau jewelry, remarkable for the delicacy of its floral design, the fluidity of its composition, and the particularly elegant combination of gold, the blue of the sapphires, and the pearl seeds.
