Description

Henri Julien Marie Detouche was first a student of his father, the history painter Laurent Detouche (1815-1882), and later of Ulysse Butin (1837-1883), a marine painter and engraver, who taught him the art of modeling and three-dimensional drawing as practiced by sculptors. He became a member of the Société des artistes français in 1889. He worked as a painter until his thirties, then turned to engraving. He traveled extensively. The work is unsigned but is similar to another gouache bearing the same title and depicting the same theme in a different cabaret. (see last photo)
