Description

An important Piedmontese console table of exceptional craftsmanship, made in Turin in the early 18th century, during the period when the Louis XIV style was in vogue in the courts and noble residences of Piedmont.The piece stands out for its rich structure of finely carved, lacquered, and gilded wood, characterized by a refined ornamental repertoire consisting of volutes, plant motifs, acanthus leaves, and exquisite openwork elements--a testament to the high level of craftsmanship achieved by Turin's workshops at the time. The curved, sculpted legs are connected by an elaborate, contoured crossbar featuring a central element in the shape of a flaming vase, lending the piece as a whole a striking visual balance and a sense of formal lightness.Of particular interest is the original top
