ivory backgroundA nuanced olive green pattern, subtly accented with faint golden tonesIn the 1970s, there was a genuine resurgence of interest in historical styles in interior design: a return to classic motifs, the use of modern industrial techniques, and the widespread availability of textiles inspired by the great traditional manufacturers. These curtains are fully in line with this trend, offering a beautiful blend of decorative tradition and high-quality modern production. Linen, a vibrant and elegant fabric, gives the curtains a natural drape and a warm presence. Displayed as drapes, these curtains reveal an elegant, structured fullness, a supple yet dense drape, and a natural highlighting of the pattern through the interplay of folds. An inscription along the selvedge on the reverse side-- "Château Saint Ange grand teint meubles" -- attests to a manufacturing process designed for high-quality furnishings and highlights the use of "grand teint" dyeing, renowned for its colorfastness and longevity. Ideal size for:-- Large picture windows-- Rooms with high ceilings-- Dramatic decor or interiors with characterIdeal for:-- Classic or neoclassical living room-- Chic country home-- Revamped 1970s vintage decorA decorative pair with a reimagined
