Description

Blessed Virgin - Southern Germany - Circa 1480
15th-century depictions are quite rare. Many have been lost, destroyed, or are now in the protective care of museums or parish treasuries. Carved in relief from linden wood, polychromed and gilded, with a flattened back and a classically hollowed-out form, our depiction--likely showing Mary seated--is in the Late Gothic style and of high quality. The calm and dignified posture, the flowing and supple folds of the robe, and the refined modeling of the head are characteristic of the art of wood carving in southern Germany during the second half of the 15th century. Originally, this statue was undoubtedly part of an altarpiece or a larger sculptural ensemble. A piece of museum quality. Condition: damaged and restored,
