Description

Oil on canvas depicting a philosopher (Socrates); Period: 17th century; Origin: Italy; Artist: Giovanni Battista Langetti, a 17th-century Italian painter known for his dramatic and intense works, characterized by strong contrasts of light and shadow. His style, typical of the Baroque period, is characterized by great expressiveness and a skillful use of light. The painting comes from a private Tuscan collection and has been carefully restored. The canvas alone measures 93 x 116 cm, while with its restored antique frame it measures 115 x 144 cm. The work is an important piece in the history of Italian art and represents an example of 17th-century Baroque painting. A second painting by the same artist, slightly smaller in size, is also available. Tempi Antichi by Ivan
