Description

A beautifully executed watercolor, framed under glass, depicting the Place aux Herbes in Uzès. The artist's masterful technique brings the figures, captured from life, to life and brilliantly captures the vibrant light of the small town of Uzès, a city of art and history in Occitanie. Located, dated, and signed in the lower left corner: MENGE. This is Claude Menge, a self-taught artist who trained under his godfather, a drawing teacher in Paris. After a professional career unrelated to painting, and a life divided between the Paris region and Brittany, he settled in Provence, where he found the light essential to his painting.
