Description

A French rural landscape painted by Albert Trotteyn (1868-1941), a well-known landscape painter active in the late 19th and early 20th centuries. The work, painted in oil on canvas, depicts a quiet village street bathed in soft light, with a balanced composition that guides the viewer's gaze toward the heart of the scene. The palette of warm, earthy tones, combined with precise and controlled brushwork, lends the work a poetic and serene atmosphere. The signature "Albert Trotteyn" is clearly legible in the lower right corner.
